

Our company

We transform the way people work, communicate and exchange information through technology. We call it information mobility, and it gets you and your workforce the information you want — wherever and whenever you need it. We've been around for 80 years — over 23 in Canada — and we're still leading the way when it comes to workstyle innovation.

Careers at Ricoh

We're looking for smart, driven and talented individuals to join our teams. We inspire our employees to think, create and imagine.

We're interested in the future of work and how to do things differently, faster, and more efficiently. In today's fast pace and complex work environment we know it's not enough to just keep up, so instead of just changing the game — we're reimagining it.

With our legacy of innovative technology and our deep expertise in capturing, transforming and managing information, we deliver solutions that power today's changing work environments. And as one of the Ethisphere Institute's 2016 World's Most Ethical Companies®, you can be sure that we're doing it with transparency, integrity and corporate social responsibility.

As a key part of the Ricoh Way, people are at the core of everything we do. That's why at Ricoh you won't just be a nameless face in the crowd. You'll be a key part of the more than 2,400 diverse and dedicated team members we have across the country. So whether you're on day five or five thousand of your career at Ricoh, we pride ourselves on building a culture designed to help you reach your potential as an employee and a person.

Diversity

We believe that a diverse workplace — one that accurately reflects the communities where we do business — makes us a stronger organization, and one that's better able to meet our customers' needs.

That's why we pride ourselves on being diverse, and not just in terms of ethnicity, nationality, generation, gender identity and economic status. At Ricoh, diversity includes the wide range of jobs you can do, the types of training we offer, the number of geographic areas we serve and more.

Imagine.
