Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) is committed to being an employer of choice by offering a progressive, positive and flexible work environment. We value our contribution to Canada and are proud of our reputation for supporting research excellence.

We build knowledge. We develop talent.

The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada (SSHRC) is the federal research funding agency that promotes and supports postsecondary-based research and research training in the humanities and social sciences. By focusing on developing Talent, generating Insights and forging Connections across campuses and communities, SSHRC strategically supports world-leading initiatives that reflect a commitment to ensuring a better future for Canada and the world.

Created by an act of Canada's Parliament in 1977, SSHRC reports to Parliament through the Minister of Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada.

We support research and talent that are central to quality of life and innovation.

SSHRC has a number of tools specifically intended to support applicants working in Aboriginal research; merit reviewers assessing applications related to Aboriginal research; and communities and other research partners engaged in Aboriginal research.

SSHRC is committed to supporting and promoting social sciences and humanities research by and with Aboriginal Peoples, including First Nations, Métis and Inuit Peoples. This commitment is a fundamental part of SSHRC's mandate, approach and efforts.

As an integral part of this commitment, SSHRC works to support the advancement of Aboriginal researchers, including Aboriginal graduate students and Aboriginal postdoctoral researchers working in the social sciences and humanities.

We are an equal opportunity employer and encourage applications from women, members of a visible minority group, Aboriginal people and persons with disabilities.
