Virtual Info Sessions for internationally educated health care practitioners and students from colleges in London and beyond.

London Health Sciences Centre (LHSC) is one of Canada's largest acute-care teaching hospitals, proudly serving the people of London, Southwestern Ontario, and beyond for 149 years. LHSC is home to University Hospital, Victoria Hospital, Children's Hospital, two family medical centres, along with the London Health Sciences Centre Research Institute (LHSCRI), Children's Health Research Institute (CHRI) and off-site locations such as 54 Riverview Ave. and FEMAP. Each year, we train over 1,800 medical and healthcare professionals in partnership with Western University and over 30 other educational institutions.

As health care organizations continue to navigate ongoing human resource challenges, the Recruitment Team at LHSC is dedicated to finding innovative to attract top talent.

- This year, we have introduced a first-of-its-kind series of virtual information sessions to engage with internationally educated health care practitioners and students from colleges in London and beyond.
- What's unique about these presentations is that we're starting to offer them in other languages, like Spanish, reaching and connecting with a wider audience.
- These sessions provided insights into current opportunities and the diverse career paths available at LHSC, including guidance for internationally educated professionals on transitioning to a career in healthcare and the exciting opportunities for students entering the field.

At LHSC, we believe that a career in healthcare should be both rewarding and challenging. Whether you are a student eager to start a career in healthcare or an internationally trained healthcare professional looking to make your mark, we invite you to connect with our team to learn more about upcoming virtual information sessions.
